The container that can breathe

Designed to prolong the shelf life

STARCARE

What is StarCare?

StarCare™ is a Controlled Atmosphere (CA) system designed to extend the shelf life of fresh produce by controlling the oxygen and carbon dioxide levels inside the container.

By changing the air composition inside the container, the produce stays fresher for longer, reducing the need for preservatives and extending its shelf life.

Technical Highlights

- Advanced Monitoring Technology
- Robust Seals to Prevent Air Leakage
- Advanced Cooling to Maintain Temperature

A special treatment of chilled produce

What is cold treatment?

Maximum benefits from the Cold Treatment process are obtained by ensuring that the produce is held at the required temperature for a minimum of 7 days. The period of time and temperature required are defined by the relevant regulatory authority.

How does it work?

Temperature is controlled and monitored by a sophisticated system of sensors and data loggers, ensuring that the produce is held at the required temperature for the required period.

Maximum benefits from the Cold Treatment process are obtained by ensuring that the produce is held at the required temperature for a minimum of 7 days. The period of time and temperature required are defined by the relevant regulatory authority.

ABOUT
AXIA equals Value Unit of Value Medium of Exchange Deliverer of Value Store of Value Creator of Value

Store of Value
 Fiat currencies and select digital currencies are theoretically able to store value, but this function is constantly under threat by depreciation, market manipulation, price volatility and countless other factors. The AXIA architecture combats such vulnerabilities through its revolutionary linkage of a decentralized public blockchain token to its diversified basket of real-time reported assets.
